CEO/Celebrity Cycle-To-Work Day Challenge

National Bike-To-Work Week kicks off on Monday, May 11. On Thursday, May 14, we challenge CEOs and elected officials to join in the CEO/Celebrity Cycle-to-Work Day Challenge. 2009 marks the fourth year that the Silicon Valley Leadership Group has promoted participation in this event--which requires only three things:

Have your executive personally cycle to work on Bike to Work Day, May 14.

Encourage at least your Bay Area, if not worldwide, employees to do likewise.

Host a "Celebration Station" at your work site for those who participate.

Our CEO/Celebrity Cycle-to-Work Day Challenge is easy and fun, and it is also a key component of the Leadership Group's "Clean and Green" Renewable Energy Action Plan, as well as our combined efforts for traffic relief, improved air quality and healthier employees. It is a triple-win, and we hope you will join the growing list of participants this year.

The 2009 participants include:

Margaret Abe-Koga, Councilmember
City of Mountain View

Marshall Anstandig, Councilmember />
City of Monte Sereno
